Upon graduating junior high school, students should be able to write a paragraph of multiple sentences using simple words and foundational expressions about things that are familiar to them.

First, set the goal for first grade students to be able to write one simple sentence by utilizing basic information about themselves such as their name, birthday and age. Concerning writing activities, the teacher presents a theme at the beginning of class and has students write that theme on a card and do presentations together in pairs or in groups.

In the second grade, set the goal for students to be able to write a paragraph of multiple sentences with simple words and foundational expressions to express specific themes such as hobbies and things they like and dislike. To do this, adopt writing activities that students can enjoy such as writing a one line journal or writing a message card and sharing it with friends.
